

Aesculapius Award for Excellence in Health Communication Application to judge Websites and/or television or radio PSAs

Please complete and fax this form to 301-320-0978 (or email to award@hii.org) Submit resume or brief biographical sketch highlighting relevant qualifications & experience.

The Aesculapius Award, named for the ancient Greek God of healing, recognizes outstanding organizations that have provided health information to the public through the use of World Wide Web (WWW) sites or television or radio public service announcements (PSAs). The award is intended to encourage excellence in health communication and promotion. Health Improvement Institute invites participation on volunteer panels to judge Websites or television and radio PSAs. Each judge reviews about 8 -10 Websites or 5-6 PSAs at their own convenience. The deadline for entries is the first Friday after the Labor Day holiday. Judges are asked to complete their evaluations by the end of October.

Aesculapius Award Judges credentialing/selection criteria

- Credentialing criteria refer to the qualifications and experiences of individuals who apply to be judges. The Institute assesses applications based on criteria.
- Selection criteria refer to guidelines for forming panels of judges (from among credentialed judges) to evaluate Award entries.
- Separate panels are established to evaluate entries for each category of Award. Multiple panels may be established for the same category of Award if the volume of entries warrants.
- Judges who evaluate entries must complete a "Declaration of Interest" pertaining to each entry that they judge.
- For each category of Award, judges evaluate the quality of each entry, select those demonstrating excellence, and, if merited, select the year's best entry in a category to receive the Annual Award.

Credentialing criteria

Documented evidence that the applicant:

- Is actively engaged in a field and role relevant to health communications
- Has at least 5 continuous years of experience, or at least 10 years of total experience, in a field and/or a role relevant to health communications
- Has sufficient specific qualifications and experiences necessary to evaluate entries in one or more categories of Award (Websites and/or PSAs).
- Does not have, nor has had in the past 5 years, any event that might create the appearance of unsuitability to be a judge
- Once credentialed, professional performance as a judge (e.g., prompt and appropriate completion of judging forms) permits recredentialing.

Selection criteria

Each panel generally consists of 3-5 credentialed judges, selected, to the extent possible, to represent relevant diversity with respect to health communications, for example:

- Type of organization (e.g., media production company, health communication consulting company, government agency, consumer advocacy organization)
- Role (e.g., producer, message designer, evaluator, health professional)
- Professional background
- Region of the country.
